

Winners—Oktoberfest Haiku Contest 2024

Today is the day,
lifting our heads to the sky,
watching the leaves change.
--Jen Bourne

Holy Comforter—
our welcoming, joyful love—
it's a warm blanket.
--John Snelsire

I'm a wramblin' wreck
from Georgia Tech and a h***
of an engineer!
--Diana Smith

(Note: Yes, the judge knows these words are borrowed, but who else ever realized the Georgia Tech fight song was a haiku!)

Hands mold light from dark,
in the heart, the soul takes shape,
creation unfolds.
--Lewis Connolly

A mom's life is fun.
Five kids. Twelve activities.
Oh. Wait. I am tired!
--Kathy Taylor

If not for my age,
perhaps I could remember
the before nap words.
--Diana Smith
